1. Please pray for the Musalaha conference on 18th & 19th March 2012 held by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC). The meeting will be attended by experts who will discuss the most effective and efficient methods of reconciliation training.

2. Musalaha welcomes the opportunity to introduce you to our newsletter. Daniel and John have been working on it with Prof. Kay Munayer, the Head of Hebrew University’s Department of Conflict Management.

3. Musalaha has just received $200,000 from HOPE International Development Agency, USA. This money will be used to support the “Ibther” Micro-loan project.

4. Please help us to continue financing our projects. Whether you give $10 or $10,000, your generosity is needed and will be greatly appreciated. Please make a secure online donation through our website at www.musalaha.org.

5. The following is a summary of articles and other activities published in the Spring 2011 newsletter of Musalaha:

Breaking the Cycle

Reflections on National Women’s Reconciliation Training

By Kay Munayer

2009 marked a decade of reconciliation work for Musalaha. It was at this time that we began reflecting on the need for national reconciliation training programs in Israel and Palestine. Last year’s gathering brought together 50 women, 25 from each side, in a three-day ‘Munayer style’ training. Many women saw the trip as a necessary step in furthering their relationships, but they were not sure if the process could be sustained beyond the training.

We therefore decided to conduct a long-term training program for women. The first training was held in August 2010. Thirty-two women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The second training was held in November 2010. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The third training was held in February 2011. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The fourth training was held in May 2011. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The fifth training was held in August 2011. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The sixth training was held in November 2011. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The seventh training was held in February 2012. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The eighth training was held in May 2012. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The ninth training was held in August 2012. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The tenth training was held in November 2012. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The eleventh training was held in February 2013. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twelve training was held in May 2013. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The thirteen training was held in August 2013. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The fourteen training was held in November 2013. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The fifteen training was held in February 2014. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The sixteen training was held in May 2014. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The seventeen training was held in August 2014. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The eighteen training was held in November 2014. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The nineteen training was held in February 2015. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty training was held in May 2015. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-one training was held in August 2015. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-two training was held in November 2015. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-three training was held in February 2016. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-four training was held in May 2016. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-five training was held in August 2016. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-six training was held in November 2016. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-seven training was held in February 2017. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.

The twenty-eight training was held in May 2017. Sixty women from each side participated. The women were encouraged to think about how they can interact with one another in the future. This involved learning how to relate to each other in a positive way, understanding the other’s perspective, and learning to forgive.
REUNION REPORT
Christmas/Chanukah together at the Talitha
Seattle, Washington in August 2010 celebrated from Israel and the Palestinian Authority to original Sound and Sand group that traveled and it was fun to see that our language overcome. Our common language is English even though we still have challenges to Our fellowship was comfortable and relaxed,
and we are committed to see His purposes
has blessed us in our relationships for a purpose granted or make light of it. We know the Lord family between us and we don't take that for building bonds of friendship and a sense of brothers and sisters joining us in Jordan in celebrated Passover/Easter with our American journey together had taken place when we Kumi School near Bethlehem. It was not the most harmonious, but it bounced back! Our journey together had taken place when we understood our Rebecca and Simon, and arriving in Jerusalem, suddenly it seemed that was out of reach. The Lord is doing something very special in building bridges of friendship and a sense of our relationships to us and we don't take that for making plans for our next gathering.

In December of 2010, I had been working at Musalah in Jerusalem, and the entire experience was new to me. In the last few months, our ministry has expanded to include a new branch in Amman, Jordan.
This expansion has allowed us to reach out to more
people in the community and work towards building
relationships that are based on mutual respect and understanding. Through these interactions, we have been able to create a sense of unity among different
groups within the community.

In December of 2010, I had been working at Musalah in Jerusalem, and the entire experience was
new to me. In the last few months, our ministry has expanded to include a new branch in Amman, Jordan.
This expansion has allowed us to reach out to more
people in the community and work towards building
relationships that are based on mutual respect and understanding. Through these interactions, we have been able to create a sense of unity among different
groups within the community.

At the end of the night I took with me an interesting and informative conversation. One of the things that stood out to me was the importance of understanding the different perspectives within the Palestinian-Israeli conflict. This conversation highlighted the complexity of the situation and showed me how important it is to be open-minded
and respectful when discussing these issues.

In conclusion, I believe that our work at Musalah is an important contribution to the process of reconciliation and peacebuilding in the Middle East. By fostering a sense of community and encouraging dialogue, we can help create a more peaceful and harmonious future.

On behalf of all the friends, we like to invite you to take part in this journey. If you would like to be a representative in your church for the birth of Friends of Musalah, please do not hesitate to contact us. We would love to support you and learn more about your story.

NEW LIFE IN THE UK
the birth of friends of musalahau